

EARLY INTERVENTION

Early Support Creates More Opportunities to Grow

The early years are an important time for developing communication, social, play, learning, and everyday life skills. Early ABA support can help children build meaningful skills while creating a strong foundation for greater independence and confidence.

Early intervention meets your child where they are, helping them build new skills, routines, and confidence during an important stage of development.

Communication

Building expressive and receptive language, conversation skills, and functional communication.

Behavior Support

Using positive, evidence-based strategies to build meaningful skills and reduce challenging behaviors.

Social Development

Helping children build friendships, share, take turns, and engage with confidence.

Transitions & School-Readiness

Supporting smoother transitions and building the social, and emotional skills needed for school success.

Independence & Routines

Encouraging daily living skills, self-care, and independence through consistent, supportive routines.

SUPPORT THAT GROWS WITH YOUR CHILD

More Than Care. Skills for Everyday Life.

Power Prep gives families flexible options throughout the day while creating a consistent environment for communication, independence, social development, routines, and school-readiness.

 ABA support integrated into the school day, with before and after care available

 Communication, social, behavioral, and independence goals

 School readiness, support for routines, and transitions

 Collaboration between educators, clinicians, and families

 A warm environment where children can learn, connect, and grow

One Team. One Environment. Shared Goals.

Rather than separating therapy from a child's educational day, Power Prep creates opportunities for ABA strategies to be practiced where children naturally learn, play, communicate, transition, and interact with peers.

- Skills practiced in real-life routines
- Collaboration between clinicians, educators & families
- Greater consistency throughout the child's day

Flexible ABA Support. Before, During, & After the school Day

Power Prep gives families flexible options throughout the day while creating a consistent environment for communication, independence, social development, routines, and school-readiness.

THE POWER PREP DIFFERENCE

Education + ABA Therapy Working Together

A Partnership Designed to Help Children Learn, Grow & Thrive

Power ABA Therapy and The Preparatory Academy in Jackson, NJ have come together to create the Power Prep Program, a supportive educational environment where children on the autism spectrum can learn alongside their peers while receiving individualized ABA therapy.

By bringing ABA therapy and early childhood education together, children can practice communication, social, behavioral, independence, and school-readiness skills throughout their natural classroom routines.

Our shared goal is simple: help every child feel supported, included, confident, and empowered to reach their fullest potential.
